Trustworthy

Being trustworthy means helping others and taking care of ourselves.

Being trustworthy means we behave safely. It means we do chores, even when we don't want to. It means we try to follow the right paths in life.

In our pack, being trustworthy means older kids teach and watch over our younger boys and girls. Adults and parents need to watch over and guide all of our boys and girls also. They will always need our love and guidance, whether they've just started out as Lions or flown all the way to become Eagles.
